Forum for Modern Language Studies – Call for Reviewers

Since its foundation in 1965, Forum for Modern Language Studies has published articles on all aspects of literary and linguistic studies, from the Middle Ages to the present day. The journal sets out to reflect the essential pluralism of modern language and literature studies and to provide a forum for worldwide scholarly discussion. FMLS produces two regular issues plus two special issues per annum. These special issues address topical themes and debates across the journal's portfolio of languages, literatures and cultures.

If you are currently involved in academic research in any of these areas and would like to be considered as a reviewer for the journal, please answer the following basic questions and send to:

Dr Claire Whitehead (cew12@st-andrews.ac.uk)
• Name
• Address
• Email address
• Title
• Institutional Affiliation
• Current research area/interests

Once you have informed the editors of Forum for Modern Language Studies of the subject or subjects of interest to you, the editors may invite you to review a book or books in those area(s).